Dear Ravi,

Your expert guidance has been invaluable to our company. You have helped us make sound strategy decisions regarding marketing and product development, as well as identify investment and product enhancement opportunities.

We are impressed with how you have applied your broad experience to deliver an innovative, methodological approach to problem solving; it is an asset for any business executive and entrepreneur would welcome. We also admire your desire to work hard and "get your hands dirty."

Your unique insights into electronic health records, personal health records, and health management have also been very useful.

Thank you.

Warm regards,
